

South Korea trip

One of my favorite trips so far was when I traveled to South Korea with my sisters. It is one of the most unforgettable memories that I wish to relive again. There are a lot of places visited, including Gyeongbokgung Palace, and markets like Dongdaemun and Namdeamun. Because we were staying for five days, we had to visit Busan, which was known for its beautiful beaches, and the famous cultural village. On the last day, I came back again to Seoul, visiting the Changdeokgung Palace and Huwon which is a secret garden. The first thing we did after landing in South Korea was take pictures of everything exciting. After a while on the same day, we started exploring the city of Seoul, the first thing on my list was to visit the Gyeongbokgung Palace, which is one of Korea's most famous and iconic sights and known for its stories of history. Gyeongbokgung means palace greatly blessed by heaven, this palace was built in the heart of Seoul. Some interesting facts about the palace that I learned from the locals, this palace was the main of the capital city and the largest out of the other five grand palaces in Seoul. What caught my eye were the guards who were wearing colorful traditional clothes. What I have learned is that those guards also known as the wanggung sumunjang, protect the king, and they are in charge of opening and closing the palace gates. At the palace, we took so many pictures that it would be a special memory for us. The following day we had to explore the two famous markets, the first one we checked was Dongdaemun market. First, we had to walk for five minutes to Dongdaemun station. It's famous for being a major fashion and shopping district that is open 24 hours. What I liked the most about this market is everything you want is there including clothes, accessories, shoes, and electronics. The other market, which is Namdeamun is one of the oldest and biggest markets in South Korea. Until today it remains one of the most popular markets that attract visitors and tourists from all over the world. While we were there we tasted some delicious street food, such as tteokbokki a spicy rice cake that is one of the most famous street foods in South Korea, and hotteok a sweet pancake filled with brown sugar it was one of my favorite things I ate in the trip, and some ramen everything tasted fresh and delicious. On the third day, we changed locations and visited Busan, it was recommended by a friend which I had to explore while there. This time we decided to go to the beach because Busan was famous for its clean clear water and great weather. We enjoyed it a lot, it was a fresh and amazing day I wish to relive it again. Moreover, on the same day, we enjoyed some Korean authentic food that tasted heavenly. Fourth day, we checked out a famous culture village called Gamcheon which is favored by tourists because of the wonderful colorful houses, with incredible art on each corner that just attracts those tourists. The first time I saw the art made my jaw drop. The uniqueness of this village is unbelievable. I loved spending my time there such a great vibe. On the last day, we headed back to Seoul, before leaving we had to visit the Changdeokgung palace and Huwon what made this palace different from others was the unique design that attracted visitors. Playing with the architecture and the layout instead of doing what they usually do in every palace. Instead, they designed it to work in harmony with nature, for example, they worked on a secret garden where they kept landscapes in every corner to highlight its natural scene. Also, this palace was part of the UNESCO World Heritage in 1977 for its architectural masterpiece with a building in perfect harmony with nature. In the end, I hope anyone reading this will get a view about South Korea and I consider anyone wanting to travel and spend time with their family to go and explore South Korea you won't regret it.
